

Rowan Ice Hockey embraces the athletic and educational experience that is an integral component of the academic mission of the University. The college attracts a diverse group of athletes who contribute academically, athletically, and socially to the life of the campus.

The Rowan varsity team is an American Collegiate Hockey Association (ACHA) D-II member and is part of Mid-Atlantic Collegiate Hockey (MACH). Rowan competes against other Mid-Atlantic and Southeast Division schools such as Temple, Penn State, Virginia Tech, Liberty, UMBC, and Saint Joseph's among others. The Mid-Atlantic conference is regarded as one of the nation's top most respected and competitive leagues and continually has teams going to the regional's. For the last two seasons, the Mid-Atlantic had eight out of the top fifteen ranked regionally including Rowan who have been nationally ranked since 2007. Two of Mid-Atlantic members have made it to the nationals last year.

Rowan competes for the Mid-Atlantic playoffs every year and had another successful playoffs in 2010 losing to eventual champions in the semi-finals.

Rowan also has a second team that competes at the D-III level.

For the 2011-2012 season, Rowan is celebrating its 35th Anniversary.

Rowan University is a selective, medium-sized public university located in southern New Jersey. With high-tech facilities, engaged professors, and nationally ranked academic and athletic programs, Rowan offers an outstanding education at an exceptional value. It is a leading public institution that combines education from the baccalaureate through doctorate. It offers 80 undergraduate majors among seven colleges and is listed in the "Top Tier" of Northern Regional Universities by US News & World Report and Princeton Review ranked Rowan one of the "Best Northern Colleges." Rowan has a new Cooper Medical School of Rowan University and is only the second school in the state to offer a medical program.

The University is in the midst of a $530 million plan to expand the campus that has already seen a new science center, engineering campus, and a new educational building. The University is also in the midst of completing the quintessential college town project called Rowan Boulevard which will house new apartment complexes, shops, hotel, Barnes and Noble store, and large green area for students. The university enrolls about 11,000 full- and part-time students in both under and post grad studies.

Rowan ICE HOCKEY

Men's Ice
Hockey
2011-2012

The Rowan University Men's Ice Hockey program has enjoyed many successful seasons since its inception in the 1970's. Over the past six years the program has evolved into one of the top programs in the region under the guidance of Head Coach John Caulfield and Associate Head Coach Mike Husek. The team won the league championship in 2008 and has continuously been nationally ranked in the Southeast Region. The program has offered numerous students the opportunity to continue playing competitive hockey while also pursuing their degree at one of the most academically renowned schools in the region.

The ice hockey program at Rowan is very competitive and is operated like an NCAA varsity program. The team is professionally managed and the athletes conduct themselves with dignity. The team plays up to 35 games during the season, including pre-season games; the team travels to all away games on a Rowan University charter bus. The team also participates in a variety of tournaments during the season, such as the Canes Cup in Raleigh, NC or the MACHA Showcase Tournament. The team carries a roster of about 28 players, with players coming from many backgrounds, including midgets, high school, Junior-level teams, and other colleges. The program has attracted players with experience playing in Canada and Europe.

The team plays all home games at Hollydell Ice Arena in Sewell, NJ, approximately five minutes from campus. Practices are held twice a week during afternoon hours, for about an hour and fifteen minutes each. The team has its own locker room facilities at the Arena, featuring individual player stalls, coaches' office, showers, skate sharpener, and more. All players receive team jerseys, gloves, pants, a matching helmet, hockey bag, team jacket, and other equipment as part of their team apparel.

The program enjoys a wide variety of media exposure, including campus telecasts, University newspaper articles and interviews, local media coverage, and coverage by Rowan University's weekly sports show "All Access with the Profs." The team also has a channel dedicated through Fast Hockey, which broadcasts all of the games online.

For current students hoping to join the team, the coaching staff typically extends an invitation to join the team for a practice, thus allowing the prospective player to experience hockey at the college level. This invitation is reserved to applicants who are applying to Rowan University and have been in contact with the coaching staff.

The most important factor in deciding where to play is selecting a school that fits both your academic and athletic needs and wants. The Rowan University Ice Hockey staff encourages players to examine and evaluate the University's academic programs and resources before making their final decision.

Rowan offers opportunities at the D-II and D-III to players that wish to continue to play.

John Caulfield. Coach Caulfield is entering his sixth year as the head coach of the Rowan University Men's Varsity Ice Hockey program. His positive attitude, spirit, and knowledge of the game all benefit Rowan. During his tenure the program has secured multiple playoff berths, including two conference final appearances and a division title in 2008. The Profs have been national ranked in the top 15 four years in a row and were the first team to host an outdoor game in ACHA history. Coach Caulfield's popularity and success behind the bench earned him honors of being named Head Coach of the All-Star team twice in 2007 and 2008. This year Coach Caulfield is hoping for another great, successful season with another good playoff run and a top 10 ranking.

Mike Husek. Coach Husek joined Rowan University Ice Hockey in 2006 and serves as both Associate Head Coach and Recruiting Director. Coach Husek is responsible for the majority of the program's recruiting activities and player development. Coach Husek has also served as the defensive coach for last six seasons and continues to concentrate on making the Profs a defensively sound team. Coach Husek also joined Coach Caulfield behind the bench for the 2007 and 2008 All-Star games. His European and Canadian background brings vast supply of hockey knowledge and significant scouting abilities to the team.

Alan Weiner. Coach Weiner is in his third year with the Profs as an Assistant Coach. He is a hit with all the players as his great personality and ability to communicate is a great asset. Coach Weiner is responsible specializing in the offensive side and helping special teams and off-ice activities. His eye for talent is a great asset to the program.

John Larnerd. Coach Larnerd is in his second year at Rowan as the Goalie Coach and is responsible for goalie development. Coach Larnerd owns his own goalie school program and his playing career includes the NCAA as well as the ECHL.

Lorri Brewer. Lorri is in her seventh year as General Manager and Admissions counselor. Lorri also serves as a compliance officer and builds the team's schedule.
